Did you love chasing the butterflies and crows flying around teamLab: Continuity? Though these 3-legged* birds and colorful butterflies are no longer nesting in the Pavilion, you can still find many creatures with wings in our galleries.

One of the fun parts about looking at art is noticing special details. Test your powers of observation by going on a scavenger hunt inspired by the vibrant imagery in the exhibition teamLab: Continuity. Find the birds and butterflies in the collection galleries on the second and third floors. Be one of the first to bring your completed scavenger hunt to the information desk in Bowes Court in exchange for a prize!

Share a picture of your favorite object on social media with the hashtag #MuseumDifferently. Follow and tag @asianartmuseum and your photo might be featured on our social media channels!

*Yatagarasu, the three-legged crow, is a creature found in Japanese mythology. It is believed to represent the sun and the will of Heaven.

Prizes available for a limited time while supplies last.
